

The Roadmap of Need is a whole child needs assessment for North Carolina youth, produced annually by the Public School Forum of North Carolina's Center for Afterschool Programs (NC CAP).

The Roadmap includes 20 indicators of wellness across four domains: health, youth behavior and safety, education, and economic development. We believe these four domains capture the interconnected social, emotional, and academic elements that are necessary for a child to succeed, both inside and outside of the classroom. Taking the approach of a whole child needs assessment is critical to understanding what is necessary for each child to have in order to thrive in school and in life.

Over the past nine years, the Roadmap has been a key resource for communicating with policymakers, funders, and the public about the importance of expanded learning programs and targeting areas where needs exist for increased investment. School administrators, afterschool providers, nonprofits, community leaders, and parent advocates often use the Roadmap to demonstrate the needs that exist in their communities. Public education advocates have brought Roadmap data to the attention of school board members, county commissioners, and members of the General Assembly in order to inform their efforts to create state and local policies that address significant community needs.

Our publication's examination of 20 indicators represent data that demonstrate various needs across North Carolina, with each indicator being used to identify where young people are most at risk of not succeeding. In addition to county-specific data on each indicator, the Roadmap provides rankings for each indicator and domain, as well as an overall ranking of all 100 counties that takes into account the data on all 20 indicators.

A note on our methodology: all indicators are weighted equally in the calculations, but in reality, some of these indicators may have a stronger influence on youth success than others. In order to come up with these indicators, we consulted with experts in each of the four domains, using their input to guide decisions about which data to include in the Roadmap. Additionally, it is important to recognize that other indicators could have been used. Had different indicators been chosen, such as using the number of students that qualify for free and reduced priced lunch instead of median household income, the results may have varied slightly; however, the counties at the top and the bottom of the rankings would likely have remained the same.

The Public School Forum and NC CAP will continue to advocate for public schools, expanded learning opportunities, and healthy, economically vital North Carolina communities. However, we strongly believe that citizens and community organizations are in the best position to advocate for their schools and communities. We hope that the Roadmap will continue to serve as a resource for policymakers, program providers, business and community leaders, grant writers, researchers, and educators. It is up to all of us, as North Carolina citizens, to use the data provided by the Roadmap to work thoughtfully and collaboratively to target resources most effectively to ensure that all North Carolina youth have the opportunity to succeed.

Looking at the data illustrated by the map above, a troubling trend continues—the fact that our state is now divided into "two North Carolinas." One North Carolina we see borne out in the data is populated by young people living in largely urban areas that are attractive to industries and job growth, providing quality educational experiences both in and out of school, and promoting healthy activities. The other North Carolina we are seeing is populated by young people living in communities in a state of economic decline that have struggling schools, few out-of-school opportunities, and limited options for healthy activities. At first glance, the Roadmap points to counties in eastern North Carolina as those most at risk. However, the nature of county-wide indicators often masks the variation occurring within counties, particularly our most populous urban counties where single neighborhoods that would fare well on the Roadmap indicators exist in close proximity to neighborhoods with many young people in need.

HOW THE CATEGORY RANKINGS WERE CALCULATED

In order to calculate the rankings, each county was given a rank of 1-100, either from lowest to highest or highest to lowest, depending on each indicator. For example, teen pregnancy rates were ordered lowest to highest, while physicians per 10,000 population numbers were ordered highest to lowest. Once we had rankings for all the indicators in the category, the indicator rankings were averaged for each county, giving an average of all health rankings. The counties were then ranked by this average, providing an Overall Health Ranking. This procedure was repeated for the categories of Youth Behavior & Safety, Education, and Economic Development.

HOW THE OVERALL RANKINGS WERE CALCULATED

In order to calculate the overall rankings, we used a method very similar to the method used to calculate the category ranking. As for the category rankings, each county was given a rank of 1-100, either from lowest to highest or highest to lowest, depending on the indicator. For example, teen pregnancy rates were ordered lowest to highest, while physicians per 10,000 population numbers were ordered highest to lowest. Once we had rankings for all the indicators in the category, the indicator rankings were averaged for each county, giving an average of all twenty rankings. The counties were then ranked by this average, providing an overall ranking.
